Varieties. It is impossible to list all available sorts. Write for prices on others with which you may be familiar.

Flowering Periods. Throughout the Catalog, figures show the relative flowering periods under normal conditions; the earliest designated as "1."

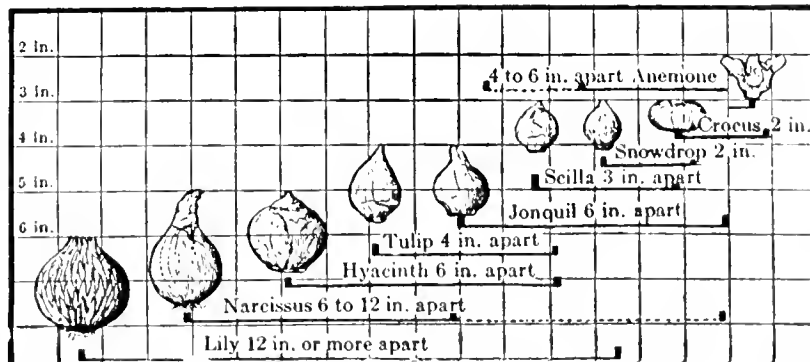

Begonia, Camellia-flowered

The chart below shows the desirable depths and spacing under average conditions for the familiar garden bulbs. This is a safe planting-guide for the average amateur but should be varied according to special soil or temperature or where actual experience has convinced the planter otherwise.

Many of our garden lilies require deeper planting than the 6 inches specified here. We state the recommended depths in our lily listing.

Do not plant too early in California. For general conditions, we recommend the planting of Tulips, Narcissi, and most other fall bulbs during October, November, and early December. Where the stock has been properly stored in a cool, dry place, we find they succeed very well planted even as late as early January. This is not generally recommended, however.

Begonia, Rosebud Type

Tuberous-Rooted Begonias

Tuberous Begonias are of simple culture, and they fill a long-felt need for plants suitable in shady spots. Given the proper conditions, the results generally are beyond expectations. For location, guard against mid-day burning sun and drafts, and provide a maximum of light and fresh air. For soil, provide a loose, friable condition—ample humus.

These shade-loving plants are one of our specialties. We use the finest of hybridized seed and grow our plants in open fields to produce the hardiest tubers.

The size and quality of the flowers are dependent on the strain of seed used in their propagation and the care you give to them. The size of the tubers and our care in the production fields determine the size of the resultant plants in your garden; jumbo size tubers develop the largest, most free-flowering plants with earliest blossoms; the smaller, bedding size tubers will produce fine individual flowers.

For Begonia prices, see Front Cover.

HARDY LILIES

Please send Lily orders promptly

Lily bulbs are ready during the fall and early winter, and should be planted as soon as possible. If you will send us your order in advance, we will deliver the stock as soon as it is dug, cured, and ready.

Spring planting is satisfactory if the bulbs have been kept in good condition. If you are revamping your Lily-beds in the spring, tell us—we may be able to furnish your requirements at that time.

It is important to plant Lily bulbs at their proper depth as we specify in the descriptions.

Good drainage is necessary. The Lily-bed should be prepared to a depth of about 2 feet, providing a loose, friable mixture of loam, gravel, sand, and leafmold, with a bottom of stones and rocks.

DUTCH HYACINTHS

We would like your Hyacinth orders
before September 1

The strongest, richest effect will be achieved with the planting of top-size bulbs. However, our bedding size is a liberal one for this purpose and will produce flowers of exceptional grace and strength.

We urge the planting of Miniature Hyacinths for the garden. The flower-spikes are of good size and the characteristics of color, fragrance, and size of bells are identical to top-size blossoms, but the spike is more graceful; not so compact. Use Miniature Hyacinths for massive border effects; they are so much more economical. (See page 2.)

MULTIFLORA HYACINTHS. Generally produce up to 8 blooms from 1 bulb. Each bulb packed in carton with cultural directions and colored photograph. 6 varieties, 6 different colors.

Industry. Oval, dark red, very sweet berries often 1 to 1 1/2 inches in diameter. Fine for pies or jams.

Cherry

Strawberry

RHUBARB, Hyde's Improved Cherry. Larger, crisper, and with a more delicious flavor than older sorts. This is the variety quoted in market reports as "Watsonville Rhubarb," which tops the prices obtained by the market gardeners. 35c each; $3.00 per doz. Ask for quantity prices.

STRAWBERRIES

For years the name "HYDE COMPANY" has been associated with Strawberry plants. We have developed and introduced many of the standard varieties and have studied their adaptation to the different conditions of soil, climate, etc., observing closely the quality of fruit from the standpoint of flavor and shipping qualities.

Every family should have its own garden and berry-

All Strawberries, except where noted, 25c per doz.; $1.75 per 100; $3.50 for 250

XX Banner. Our XX Banner is an improvement over the original Banner variety which we introduced in 1899. Our original stock still holds the world's record for production of 35,000 pounds per acre. There is no better berry—rich, dark glossy red, of delicious flavor and a good keeper. Suitable for garden or the commercial field.

Hyde Double Nick. A built-up strain of the Nick Ohmer which we introduced to the west years ago. One of the best commercial money-makers. A heavy cropper of large, shiny berries of remarkable keeping quality. The best variety for eastern and long-distance shipping.

New Oregon Improved. Large, deep red of finest flavor. Thrives best in dark, rich loam.

Marshall. A standby for both coast and interior sections. Healthy foliage and long-lived.

patch. We are qualified to advise both for home and commercial planting, and offer you the best grade in standard and new varieties.

In California, 100 plants should give enough fruit throughout the entire season, if well cared for, to supply the average family. Ask us for a dozen or for a hundred thousand.

Red Heart. A splendid new variety, especially good for canning or market.

Oregon Plum. Our introduction to Mr. Tatsiguchi at Florin in 1895. We have the original strain. Is similar to New Oregon but better suited to warmer districts.

Progressive Improved. With the exception of the coast sections, this is, perhaps, the most consistently ever-bearing variety. The Banner and Magoon are longer croppers on the coast. 60c per doz.; $3.75 per 100.

Dorsett. A newer variety of promise, both for home and field planting. Extremely healthy and long-lived foliage of strong vigor and "well set-up." Berries large, of good color and plentiful. A heavy bearer and good money-maker; better than the Fairfax for dry conditions.

Mastodon. A monstrous berry of good flavor and color. A late bearer. 60c per doz.; $3.75 per 100.

BUSHBERRIES

BLACKBERRY

Mammoth. Early and productive.

Himalaya. Strong grower. Late. Unexcelled for jellies.

Macatawa. Early. Bush type with few seeds and small core. Of excellent quality.

Mammoth Blackberry. 15c each

Blueberry. Many sections of the West are adapted to Blueberry culture. The main requirements are acid soil and ample moisture during the fruiting season. Plant a commercial patch or a few in the garden. Best named hybrid varieties, $1.00 each; $10.00 per doz.

Loganberry. Dark red, rich, juicy, and tart. Fine for jams, pies, etc.

Youngberry. Large, juicy, and black with few seeds. Of exceptional flavor.

All above varieties, strong plants, 15c each; $1.50 per doz.; $10.00 per 100, except where noted

Boysenberry. All of the good qualities of the Youngberry, but larger and more prolific. 20c each; $2.00 per doz.; $15.00 per 100.

Hyde's Improved Phenomenal Berry. The true Phenomenal is a wonderful berry, larger than the Logan, brighter red, sweeter and richer, with a distinct raspberry flavor. Many people have never tasted this berry as Logan plants have often been substituted. We have an improved strain of the true stock. 25c each; $2.00 per doz.; $15.00 per 100.

THORNLESS BERRIES. All the following are identical with the thorny parents, but thorns are absent and fruit is finer.

Cory Thornless Blackberry. The best of the old thornless sorts. Very large, with wild berry flavor. 15c each; $1.50 per doz.; $10.00 per 100.

Thornless Logans. 20c each; $2.00 per doz.; $15.00 per 100.

Thornless Youngberry. 20c each; $2.00 per doz.; $15.00 per 100.

Thornless Boysenberry. 60c each; $6.00 per doz.
